NOCCCD COVID 19 Manual July 30 2020.pdf;

Dear Colleagues,

I hope you are staying safe and healthy – both mentally and physically. Based on the resurgence of COVID-19 cases, we will continue to have limited numbers of employees in the workplace and I expect this to continue into early 2021 at a minimum. For those of you who are working onsite, the attached COVID-19 Guidelines and Protocols Manual contains protocols and instructions to maintain as much safety as possible in our physical environment. This manual will be regularly updated as new information emerges, so you can expect to see the next version during the fall semester. Please note that it does not specifically address faculty and students in classrooms or instructional facilities. Those protocols will be jointly developed with the campuses and faculty groups by identifying best practices that can be applied across the District. You can expect to see those guidelines in late fall.

Update on Confirmed COVID-19 Cases

Since my July 9 update, there have been four new positive cases among employees. This brings our total number of cases since June to 15:

Take care of yourselves and stay safe.
